20,000 Tons Batter Reich

LONDON, Feb. 2(AP)—A massive fleet of British bombers carried out a crushin attack on the burning city of Augsburg last night and piled up a tal of nearly 20,000 tons of bombs dropped on Germany in an unparalleled six-day offensive against the Reich's aircraft industry.

The German radio said that large-scale attacks on the chemical center of Frankfurt were made at the same time, and the Swiss radio said night flights crossed Switzerland from Italy, raising the distinct possibility that Italian-based Wellingtons of the RAF again carried out a two-way British assault as on the night before.

Germany's aircraft industry—target of the world's greatest aerial offensive for six days—has been bombed to the point where it is believed the factories will be unable to keep up with current German losses in fighter planes, a high-ranking U. S. Army Air Force spokesman said.

SLASH NAZI PLANE OUTPUT

Since Jan. 1, Germany's twin-engine fighter production has been reduced 60 per cent, the spokesman disclosed. He said these figures are based on latest reconnaissance but still are only preliminary.

The greatest damage probably has been done during the past week when, the spokesman said, the American Eighth Airforce alone had dropped 7935 tons of bombs on German soil, a greater amount than was dropped in the whole first year of operation by the American Air Force here. With the tonnage dropped by the Fifteenth Air Force in Italy, the total rose to 9425 tons.

He said U. S. headquarters believed Germany had lost the last hope of maintaining a successful defense, adding that it has been definitely decided here that the Reich cannot prevent the strategic bombing of any target in Germany.

He promised operations would increase as the year progressed.

	1000 RAF	2000	Augsburg	24
Total		19,740	Total	382

The U. S. lost 234 bombers and the RAF 148.

The Germans lost 652 fighters in trying to halt these assaults, communiques show. The Eighth Air Force announced yesterday that 1043 enemy planes have been downed against a loss of 305 of U. S. craft in all its operations.

Additional tonnage was dropped during the week in operations by medium and fighter-bombers.

Beachhead Still Foils Nazi Stab

By RICHARD G. MASSOCK

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Naples, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Germans, maintaining steady pressure on the Allied beachhead below Rome, harassed American and British forces with shells and bombs but were knocked back in their single small attack yesterday.

The Nazi stab was made on the Allied right flank in the Pontine marsh area four miles from the coast. Taking advantage of ravine terrain near Carroceto, the Nazis tried to slip through at the other end of the Allied lines, but the attempts failed.

High winds and snow on the Cassino front helped keep that sector more or less stationary, but the Germans again attacked futilely a French-held hill northwest of Cassino.

Indian troops threw back three night attacks near Orsogna. Allied artillery fire also broke up an enemy raid there and a patrol inflicted casualties north of Arielli.

Guns and supplies still were flowing into the beachhead area despite bad weather, continued Nazi shelling and German torpedo boat stabs at shipping.

The Allied communique said an E-Boat attack was broken up by patrol craft.

Beachhead air activity was light but invaders of the 12th Air Force bombed the coastal towns of Terracina and Sperlonga behind the Cassino front, blocking German supply routes anew, and Warhawks took a crack at gun positions and troop concentrations near Campoleone.

Reds Widen Breach In Rogachev Drive

MOSCOW, Feb. 26 (AP)—Germany's White Russian armies countered desperately today in attempts to plug their crumbling central front but Soviet units fighting through heavy snows continued to exploit their large-scale breakthrough near Rogachev.

To the northwest the Red Army was closing in rapidly on Pskov in a two-pronged attack.

The Russians are in position to shell Pskov's outer defenses, press dispatches said, and the highway to the key rail center was reported now open except for the numerous barricades of minefields.

The Russian southeastern arm was reported to have reached within five miles of Porkhov, only 45 miles from Pskov.

There the Russian columns stand but 50 miles northeast of Ostrov, a strongpoint which the Germans must hold if they keep the Russian forces from throwing a pincers about Pskov.

Many Agree

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Senator Andrews (D.) of Florida, deplores, as a menace to juvenile morals, radio crooners who set "children yelling and screaming as though they were having fits."

Likewise, he said, heroes "in pistol packing pictures shoot the man down and the blood runs until a boy thinks he won't amount to anything unless he gets two pistols and shoots somebody."

Nazi Loss 15,000 On Beachhead

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Anzio beachhead has drawn into action German divisions from anti-invasion forces in the west and has cost the enemy in the neighborhood of 15,000 casualties since the landings were made Jan. 22, an Allied spokesman said today.

Losses included 2816 prisoners.

German forces in North Italy and Yugoslavia were weakened through the necessity of forming a complete new army to combat the beachhead, and the enemy's stores of material and armament were depleted, the spokesman added.

Three reinforced German infantry regiments were brought all the way from Germany to help swell this new army, the 14th.

The political importance of holding Rome as long as possible was a major factor in the fierce German reaction to the Allied invasion.

With 10 full divisions tied down at the beachhead front and repulsed in two full-scale efforts to smash the Allied lines, the German position cannot now be considered satisfactory, he said.

Jap Detection Fails to Balk Mariana Blow

By CHARLES H. McMURTRY

U. S. PACIFIC FLEET HEADQUARTERS, Pearl Harbor, Feb. 26 (AP)—The battleship-escorted American task force which ranged 3800 miles west of Pearl Harbor Tuesday to strike at the Marianas, less than 1400 miles from Tokyo, wiped out 135 Japanese planes, scored against shipping, caused heavy destruction—and didn't lose a warship.

The warships were not even damaged despite the fact their approach was detected the day before the attack and enemy torpedo planes repeatedly tried to sink them. Only six out of hundreds of attacking carrier planes were lost.

Guam, American outpost occupied by Japan at the war's outset, was bombed for the first time.

FLEET NOT THERE

The elusive Japanese fleet wasn't found at Saipan's Tanpag harbor—as it also had not been in great strength at recently bombed Truk—but a cargo ship was sunk; another was damaged and beached; a third was set afire; a patrol craft was blown up; and seven small boats were damaged.

Runways, seaplane aprons, airdrome facilities, fuel dumps and buildings were bombed heavily during the attacks on Saipan, Tinian and Guam.

The task force moving on Saipan and Tinian was detected on the afternoon of Feb. 21. All that night and the following morning, Japanese land-based torpedo planes and bombers kept after the oncoming naval units. The warships bagged 19 planes. Covering aircraft shot down five.

DESTROY 87 PLANES

Despite being forewarned, 87 Japanese planes were wiped out on the ground in the carrier plane assaults. Twenty-nine more were shot down in combat.

The 135 planes bagged in the Marianas were added to 201 destroyed during the two-day attack on Truk. From the standpoint of enemy ships, the bag at Truk was much better—between 19 and 26, including at least 11 warships.

Adm. Nimitz, in his announcement of the Marianas results, also reported that on Wednesday bombers pounded wharves, radio facilities, cantonments and shipping at Kusai in the eastern Carolines and ground installations of four enemy-held atolls in the Marshalls.

Failure of the Japanese to "come to the rescue of his beleaguered garrisons in the Gilberts or Marshalls" was underscored by Nimitz. He expressed belief that the enemy's failure was due to an acute shortage of merchantmen and an unbalanced navy.

STRIKES TIE UP BIG DETROIT WAR PLANTS

DETROIT, Feb. 26 (INS)—Detroit war production staggered today under a wave of strikes that closed two of the city's most important plants, seriously affected a third, and threw upwards of 15,000 workers into idleness.

Blast furnaces at the huge Great Lakes Steel Co. plant in suburban Ecorse were stilled when 6000 workers quit over the discharge of a union steward.

The company spokesman said the Detroit plant is the sole producer of armor plate for Navy landing vessels.

Another 6000 workers remained away from jobs at the Briggs Manufacturing Co. plant in protest against a shortening of the work week from six to five days and potential layoffs.

Production of superchargers for the Army was endangered by a strike of more than 600 foremen in the press steel department of the Ford River Rouge plant. The strike, which a company spokesman said was called over a "political fight within the union," entered the second day in defiance of orders by union chiefs.

One hundred foremen went on strike at the Packard Motor Co. plant, protesting refusal to grant them double time for Sunday work. The day shift went in this morning as usual, however, company spokesmen said.

F.D. Orders Review of Draft Cases

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—President Roosevelt, estimating the armed forces were still short approximately 200,000 trained men, today ordered a review of all occupational deferments "with a view to speedily making available" the personnel required to carry on the war.

The President sent a memorandum to Paul V. McNutt, chairman of the War Manpower Commission, and Maj.-Gen. Hershey, Selective Service director, saying Selective Service "has not delivered the quantity of men who were expected."

"The shortage which commenced to develop last September reached a total of 200,000 Dec. 31," he added. "This means today we are still short approximately 200,000 trained men although the actual personnel shortage in the Army has been reduced to 150,000."

1,200,000 NEEDED

The shortage of men for the armed service was discussed yesterday by Hershey, who used the same 200,000 figure as the President.

He said the armed forces need 1,200,000 men by July 1 to reach the planned goal of 11,300,000, and added the 200,000 represented the number of men not to be had from preferred sources.

Of that number a large percentage must come from among younger men holding occupational deferments, and farmers who cannot show they are contributing substantially to the wartime food pool.

The text of the President's memorandum follows in part:

"The crucial campaigns of this year will determine both the length of this war and its price in men and goods. We are well equipped in food and munitions but their production has drawn overheavily on our stock of manpower. It is time to strike a new balance.

Initial estimates have been reduced by over half a million men. Recently the Army has had to withdraw the great majority of men who were receiving instruction in colleges.

"The present allocations of personnel to the armed forces cannot be further reduced, and there is a very real danger in our failure to supply trained replacements at the time and in the numbers required.

"The nation's manpower pool has been dangerously depleted by liberal deferments.

"The average men, the physically disqualified, the returned soldier, and the women of the nation must be used more effectively to replace the able-bodied men in critical industry and agriculture.

"Almost 5,000,000 men have been deferred for occupational reasons. Agriculture and industry should release the younger men who are physically qualified for military service.

BOY, 15, HELD IN GUN DEATH OF PLAYMATE

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Frank Drury, 15, was under arrest on a charge of homicide today after police found the body of an 11-year-old playmate, Henry (Junior) Pederson, in a rooming house closet.

Detective Lieut. Henry Devlin said the Pederson boy had been dead two weeks when police found his body yesterday, and that young Drury told detectives he shot his playmate accidentally while both were inspecting a new .44-40 rifle they had bought from a mail order house.

Devlin said the Drury boy told the following story:

Both boys played hookey from school the morning of Feb. 11, and the younger boy went to Drury's room.

While Drury was showing his playmate how the gun worked it went off and sent a bullet through the Pederson boy's head. Drury waited, and no one came. He cleaned some blood off the floor, covered his playmate's head with burlap and dragged the body down a hallway to a vacant room, put it in a closet and locked the room door.

War Priest Is 'Tough,' Lake Finds

Berlin-Bound With New England's Own

By AUSTEN LAKE

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND (By transport mail)—Father Edward T. Connors of 70 Mendon st., Uxbridge, is a Catholic chaplain who likes to assume mock ferocity with his men, and refer to himself satirically, as "Tough - Guy Connors."

1st-Lieut. Connors likes to bawl mimic bombast, and swell up with imitation authority. "Hey, you," he'll yell at some passing truck driver, "Watch what you're doing." Or to some dungareed buck, "Button up that blouse, soldier."

The men grin and flirt a paw with less of a salute due his commissioned rank than the fraternal sign of brothers in the same lodge. And the chaplain grins back—not one of those painted-egg smirks of the professional sunshine-spreader, but an honest-to-God smile that radiates from the oven which is his heart.

The men obey their officers with a docile, selfless discipline. But they'd storm the ramparts of hell with Fr. Connors.

Where I found him—result of the soldiers' inquiries, "Have you met Fr. Connors?" was in the soggy, fog-filled, lap of the English hills where he was wading through sticky gumbo and living on the level with his men—a figure leaner, a face younger and a spirit greener than his 40-odd years. The Holy Cross class of '27 remember him.

No "Holy Joe," but a soldier fighting as fierce a battle as any man who squeezes a Garand trigger, or cuts a mortar fuse, or pushes a firing button.

He and his fellowship of the little silver cross are combating the forces of despair, and heart hunger and the 7-and-70 distempers of the human spirit.

"There's a Boston lad who's just lost his mother," said Lieut. Connors, indicating the solitary figure of Sergt. Will G. Hogan of 11 Hillsboro rd., Medford.

1st Lady Would Let Postwar Fate Of Axis Wait

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26 (AP)—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt says "we can't decide now what to do with Japan and Germany after the war because we haven't the remotest idea of what conditions will be like when the war is over."

She made the statment at a press conference while here yesterday to address an institute on America's role in world affairs, sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee.

"I am not in favor of deciding we have won the war until the war is over," Mrs. Roosevelt continued. "Wait until we have won."

Lake Meets Old Acquaintance By Chance

Austen Lake, Boston American war correspondent in Britain with New England's Berlin-bound fighting men, tells Monday of his chance meeting with an old acquaintance and in the telling writes one of the finest stories of his brilliant series.

Lake's story of the background and the thrilling events which have taken place since he last saw his old acquaintance illustrates clearly the almost unbelievable happenings which this global war has produced.

Read this graphic drama of war in Monday's Boston American along with messages by boys from Cambridge, Chestnut Hill, Dedham, Brookline, and other New England cities and towns.

Russia-Finland Peace is Near, London Thinks

By JUDSON O'QUINN

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP)—An early peace growing out of current Finnish-Russian negotiations appeared in prospect today as London diplomats expressed belief Helsinki would accept Soviet terms, possible early next week.

With the Red army in a strategic position to roll them back across the 40-mile-wide Karelian isthmus, the Finns are unlikely to refuse a reported six-point Russian proposal, it was regarded here.

The fact the Russians are holding up a ground campaign against the Finns, although their position on the Leningrad front is favorable, was seen here as an indication Moscow is keeping the door open and expecting a quick reply.

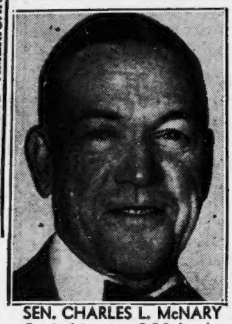
Russian terms reported from neutral countries, circulating unofficially in London, although both the British and American governments presumably were fully informed, leave one knotty problem for the Finns—the internment of 100,000 German troops in northern Finland.

This probably will be the main point of discussion if the Finns accept the reported Russian invitation to send military and political delegations to Moscow.

The fact reports of the purported Russian terms were permitted by censorship to be printed in the Finnish press seemed an indication the government was preparing the people for an important step soon.

The Stockholm Aftonbladet's Helsinki correspondent said the Finnish peace dilemma "is expected to be much clearer in the next few days. The government is expected to give a full report to Parliament very soon."

It was recalled the winter peace of 1940 caught the Finns by surprise because the home front was under the impression Finland was winning the war.



SEN. CHARLES L. McNARY
Capital Mourns GOP Leader

Sen. McNary Death Cuts G. O. P. to 36

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Charles L. McNary, of Oregon, the 69-year-old leader of Senate Republicans, was dead today in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., where he had gone several months ago to rest after an operation to remove a brain tumor.

The death of McNary, reported to be recovering, came as a shock to many of his colleagues and apparently left wide open the choice of a successor in the leadership post.

Funeral services for McNary will be held at Salem, Ore., next Friday.

Memorial services probably will be arranged meanwile in the Senate chamber where McNary had served since 1917.

McNary was a confidant of presidents and those who aspired unsuccessfully to the presidency. In 1940 he reluctantly accepted his party's nomination for the vice-presidency on a ticket headed by Wendell L. Willkie.

His death reduced the minority contingent to 36.

U. S. Views Peace Offer to Finns Fair

By KINGSBURY SMITH

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (INS)—The United States government is understood today to regard as extremely reasonable the armistice terms which Russia has submitted to Finland.

Furthermore, official Washington views the Soviet offer as Finland's last chance to get out of the war without suffering complete military defeat and the consequent imposition of harsh terms imposed under unconditional surrender.

It would cause no surprise in Washington if the American government was using its influence to persuade the Finns to accept the Soviet terms.

It was definitely ascertained in authoritative quarters that Russia, in an effort to bring about Finland's quick withdrawal from the war, has refrained from insisting on unconditional surrender.

Moscow is prepared to give definite assurances its forces would withdraw from Finnish territory as soon as the Germans have been interned or driven out.

One of the most important features of the Soviet terms, in the opinion of official Washington, is that Moscow makes no demand for any change in the Finnish government. Nor does Moscow demand demobilization of the Finnish army before the end of the European war.

Total German Loss Put at Five Millions

Taylor Henry, chief of the Associated Press Bureau in Vichy at the time of the German occupation, now in Portugal awaiting repatriation, wrote this dispatch before leaving the German internment camp at Baden-Baden, Germany.

By TAYLOR HENRY

BADEN-BADEN, Germany (delayed) (AP)—The number of Germans put out of action—killed, badly wounded or captured—since the beginning of the war reaches a minimum of 4,500,000 to 5,000,000, of whom about 2,000,000 are dead, according to conservative estimates.

The average age of Germans killed in action jumped by two and one-half years in the last six months, indicating that the Nazis are being forced to call more and more heavily on older men.

Statistics which I kept during internment show that the average age of the German soldiers killed in August, 1943, was 25½, while by the end of January it reached 28. In the last few days the Germans ordered men up to and including 60 to report for examination for military service.

Average age figures for the last six months showed the following curve: August, 25½; September, 26; October, 26½; November 27½; December, 27½; January (1944) 28. During the same period there was a change in the percentage of those 21 and under from 30 to 32 per cent of the total deaths, while the average of those above 35 rose from eight to 14 per cent.

The most startling drop was in bare youths 19 and under, who in August supplied 15 per cent of the total deaths. By January they provided only 9 per cent, indicating that most of that group had already been killed.

As the winter offensive got under way it became apparent from the figures that the Germans were throwing in more and more classes for frontline duty.

The 260 divisions the Germans had on the Russian front constituted well over half of their maximum front-line effectives at the beginning of 1944.

Pravda Attacks W. R. Hearst

MOSCOW, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Pravda writer, David Zaslavsky, in an article entitled (William) "Randolph Hearst, American friend of Adolf Hitler," asserted that the publisher was trying to destroy the alliance of the Soviet Union, Great Britain and the United States.

It was one of the most bitter attacks ever levelled by a Soviet writer at any person in an Allied country. Zaslavsky recently attacked Wendell Willkie.

His article today made plain that he considers Hearst was "carrying on in opposition to the United States government and the overwhelming majority of the American people."

Mothers Get Awards for Hero Sons

In an impressive ceremony at Logan Airport, East Boston, four Greater Boston war mothers today were scheduled to receive service awards recently issued to their sons for heroism.

The presentations are listed as follows:

Mrs. Anna Ciovacco, 21 Hamilton st., Dorchester, Air Medal with four oak leaf clusters for her son, Staff Sergt. James A. Ciovacco, Northwest African Air Force, reported killed in action.

Mrs. Nellie M. Monahan, 51 Leonard st., Dorchester, Air Medal with one oak leaf cluster for son, Lieut. William J. Monahan, Eighth Bomber Command, reported a prisoner of war.

Mrs. Mary Rittenberg, Fourth and Paul sts., Brookline, Air Medal for son, Lieut. Irving M. Rittenberg, 1st Bombardment Division, reported a prisoner of war.

Mrs. Alice W. Jackson, 100 Albatross rd., Quincy, Air Medal for son, Lieut. Theodore M. Jackson, 1st Bombardment Division, reported killed in action.

LEGION HEAD TO SPUR VET RIGHTS BILL

By FRANK REILLY
Boston American Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26—National Commander Warren H. Atherton of the American Legion will arrive in Washington Monday to help direct the final stages of the battle to make the omnibus "bill of rights" for veterans a law.

The measure is now bing perfected by Senate and House committees, which are expected to report it out to their respective chambers early next week.

As this vital plan for the rehabilitation of service men and women reaches the point for open debate on the floors of the House and Senate, sponsors emphasized that public petitions for its passage should multiply, in order to impress Congress with the need for such legislation.

Individuals who have friends or relatives in the armed services were urged to join with American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars posts and similar groups in sending additional telegrams and letters to congressmen.

Comdr. Atherton, on Tuesday, will visit Columbia, S. C. where he will address the state legislature of South Carolina on the need for a comprehensive law providing relief and rehabilitation for discharged veterans.

Urge British End Political Truce

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP)—An end to Great Britain's war-time political truce was demanded today by Lady Violet Bonham Carter, daughter of the late Earl of Oxford and Asquith, Britain's Liberal prime minister at the start of the first World War.

"We have an old, stale House of Commons, out of touch and out of date," said Lady Violet, who has been nominated for the presidency of the Liberal party her father once led. "It has been refreshed from time to time by government nominees and old party hacks.

"We have a disfranchised youth. The result is that Parliament and the people are out of touch, and the gulf between them is steadily widening."

Lady Violet, who spoke at Plymouth, declared public opinion was stifled by the political truce under which the three largest parties, Conservative, Labor and Liberal, agreed that to fill a vacancy in Parliament only the party last holding the seat would nominate a candidate.

FORMAL DANCE will be sponsored by clerks of the Western Union Telegraph Co. at the Hotel Commander, Cambridge, on Friday, March 10, with servicemen to be admitted free . . . Proceeds will be turned over to the Red Cross . . . Officers of the committee are, l. to r., Claire P. Yetman, treasurer; Grace E. Calman, chairman, and Mary L. Previte, secretary.

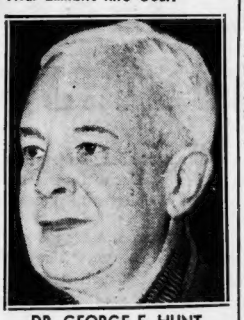
Noxon Jury Gets Rest After Dramatic Clash

By PAULINE WARREN
Boston American Staff Writer

PITTSFIELD, Feb. 26—With the Noxon murder trial in recess for the week-end, the jurors, attorneys and court officials sought rest today following the dramatic first day of testimony, which was marked by the initial clash between opposing counsel.

LIEUT. JOHN HORGAN (LEFT) AND JAMES ASHE
State Police Carry Noxon Trial Exhibits Into Court

CORP. GEORGE F. FISKE
Prosecution's First Witness



DR. GEORGE F. HUNT
Third Witness Called by State

The flare-up between Dist.-Atty. Charles R. Alberti, the prosecutor, and former Gov. Ely, chief defense attorney, added excitement to the cold thrill felt throughout the courtroom when Alberti suddenly displayed a moulage cast of the electrocuted body of little Lawrence Noxon.

For a moment, the prosecutor held up to Ely the pinkish, diapered image, and high enough to be seen by the dead baby's accused father from his seat in the prisoner's cage.

Corp. George F. Fisk of the State Police, first witness for the Commonwealth, was on the stand when Alberti unexpectedly produced the child's cast.

CALLS FOR PHOTOGRAPHS

Fisk was identifying photographs of the victim, under questioning by Alberti, at the time, but was interrupted by Ely's demand that all other photographs in Alberti's possession be shown, even duplicates in the prosecutor's brief case.

Apparently irked, the district attorney started pulling out pictures and blueprints from various pockets and handed them to Ely, saying:

"I'll show you everything I've got—and here's something else you might like to see. I want to help you."

With this, he pulled the replica, identical in size and general shape with little Lawrence Noxon's body, from a box and flourished it in front of Ely's face. The spectators seemed stunned. Ely did not try to hide his wrath.

In icy tones, the former governor asked, "Do you think, Mr. District Attorney, that you're acting as a prosecuting officer of this Commonwealth should act? Do you, as district attorney, think it is proper here at this time to produce a thing like that?"

John F. Noxon, Jr.

Dist. Atty. C. R. Alberti

DOCTOR TESTIFIES

Various photographs of the electrocuted baby were then admitted as exhibits by Judge Abraham E. Pinanski, who reminded the jury they were not intended to create a "loathsome feeling or a feeling of hatred" toward the defendant.

When the trial resumes on Monday, the first witness to take the stand will be Dr. George E. Hunt of Pittsfield, specialist in child care who was testifying at the time yesterday's session came to a close.

Dr. Hunt said that from various examinations of the Noxon baby in the months following its birth, he judged the child was defective and suspected he was of mongoloid type.

"A mongoloid," the doctor explained, "has in appearance the features of a Mongol or an Asiatic; a short, flat nose and slanted eyes; a tongue which seems a little larger than the mouth, eyes which oscillate.

"Oscillation, an aimless back and forth movement, is associated with a lack of mental development."

He added that the baby had no normal power of motion and could not change quickly from one position to another.

Dr. Hunt told of giving the baby a Schick test for diphtheria and inoculations for whooping cough last Sept. 22. This was the day the child died. Court recessed at this point in the testimony.

Lonergan Case Witness

LONERGAN'S COUNSEL BACK, SEES CLIENT

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (INS)—Edward V. Broderick returned to New York today and went to the Tombs to confer with his client, Wayne Lonergan.

The attorney, who defied Judge John J. Freschi's peremptory order to start the trial last Wednesday, told the RCAF cadet what he had learned in Toronto, Fort Erie and Buffalo

Broderick, who had prepared a three-pronged defense, said he will be in court Monday morning

Broderick will maintain, when the trial starts, that the 26-year-old RCAF cadet confessed to the murder of his heiress wife, Patricia, because he was exhausted from being held "illegally incommunicado" for more than 100 hours.

If this fails, it is said, Broderick then will contend Lonergan was driven mad by the alleged infidelities of his wife and by her refusal to permit him to see his infant son, Wayne, Jr. The third defense will be an attempt to prove Lonergan the victim of hereditary insanity.

Meantime, Mrs. Jean Murphy Jaburg and a surprise witness were on their way from Florida to New York to complete the state's array of witnesses.

Ship's Cannon Fires 2 Shells at N. Y.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (INS)—For the second time in recent weeks, New York city experienced another "shelling" today. Two small shells from an anti-aircraft gun on a United Nations freighter moored off West 55th St. went screaming over the waterfront and tore through the brick work of a tall smokestack near an IRT powerhouse at 59th St.

Police and Coast Guards reported the gun was fired accidently.

Rolling Pin Duel In Lynn Sends 2 to Hospital

Two heads may be better than one—but not after being bopped with a rolling pin.

As a result, Francis A. Sheridan, 39, of Crosby st., Lynn, was wearing six stitches in his scalp today, while his wife, Edna, 27, was wearing fice and recovering in Lyn Hospital.

Police entered the case after Mrs. Sheridan entered the police station at 3 a. m., to complain that her husband had belabored her head with a rolling pin.

Officers took her to the hospital. They found him at home, holding his head in his hands.

"My wife hit me with a rolling pin," he explained.

He was taken to the same hospital. In Lynn district court today he pleaded guilty to assault with a dangerous weapon, admitting he had used the rolling pin as such, but insisting Mrs. Sheridan had done it first.

Police told Judge Reeves they wanted to question Mrs. Sheridan. He continued the case to Monday and released Sheridan on his own recognizance.

Won't Reveal Real Thief, She Is Jailed

LEOMINSTER, Feb. 26—Refusing to disclose the identity of the man she claimed committed the theft of which she was charged, Mrs. Marie C. Knight, 30, of Mechanic st., mother of two children, today was found guilty of larceny of four war bonds and was given a 30-day jail term and fined $10.

Judge Ralph W. Robbins in district court urged the young mother to name the man, but she refused, saying:

"I won't tell."

She did not appeal the sentence and was taken to Worcester house of correction. Court attaches said Mrs. Knight faced an additional 20 days in jail unless she paid the $10 fine before the expiration of her term.

Police said the bonds were taken from the apartment of George C. Blay, who lived across the hall from Mrs. Knight. Three of the bonds were hidden under the kitchen linoleum in the Knight apartment, police charged.

Her two children, aged 6 and 3, have been boarding with a neighbor since Mrs. Knight and her husband, Seaman Harris Knight, U. S. Navy, separated two years ago. Police said the couple was recently reconciled and he is stationed at Philadelphia.

Can Hitler Stand Air War Much Longer?

By DeWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

We are rapidly approaching the climax of the Allied experiment to determine how close we can come to bombing Hitler into submission.

Less than a year ago Prime Minister Churchill told a joint meeting of the Senate and House in Washington the use of air power by itself to bring about collapse of Germany and Italy was an "experiment . . . well worth trying, so long as other measures are not excluded."

True, the Allied high command is preparing for the land invasion of western Europe on the theory Hitler must be finished off in battle on the ground. We are depending on the aerial bombardment to pave the way for what Churchill describes as "The greatest joint operation between two allies ever planned in history."

Allied fighting men of all categories are wondering how long Hitlerdom can stand the round-the-clock assault which already has reached the frightful proportions of an upheaval of nature—like an earthquake.

I'm not predicting that Hitler will be knocked out by air alone. I'm saying we are rushing towards the climax of the second big scale experiment of history to see how close air power can come to defeating a nation. The first effort was by Hitler in 1940-41, when he tried to blitz England into submission.

He failed, and so exposed himself to the terror now sweeping the Reich. We cannot judge the present offensive by what he did, for the striking-power of the united Anglo-American air fleets far exceeds his greatest effort.

Quiz Lyman Fugitive In Weymouth Breaks

A 16-year-old Boston youth, escaped from the Lyman Reform School, was being questioned today by Weymouth police while his two teen-age pals were sought in connection with breaks into two East Weymouth coal offices, one of which netted $600.

Capture of the youth resulted a few hours after discovery of a break into the Emerson Coal office, East st. The safe was tampered with but the thieves were scared away before they could finish their job.

YOUR ANTHRACITE DEALER IS DOING HIS BIGGEST JOB

Last season, Anthracite dealers and producers were able to protect their customers from virtually all of the troubles encountered by users of other fuels.

But this season, Anthracite is carrying the home-heating load for so many others that there isn't enough to keep every one absolutely comfortable at all times.

The hard coal pinch comes from military and war industry demands. So much other fuel has been withdrawn from the household market that Anthracite can't supply the full demands of all its old as well as new users.

Hard coal dealers have taken in their stride the enormous task of delivering 6 million tons a year more than in pre-war years. They have spread their supply fairly—to old customers and the thousands of new users who would otherwise go cold.

Producers and miners are making every effort to step up this record output . . . your dealer will distribute any increase quickly and fairly just as he is doing with present production.

Dealers' wartime handicaps are many. The Government has restricted their deliveries to you. They have fewer employees. Their delivery facilities are restricted. Government limitations on individual orders have greatly increased the number of delivery trips. Yet dealers in spite of all this have delivered more coal—in total—to more persons.

For the balance of the season it is necessary for you to make every shovelful go further, give more heat. This can be done with Anthracite, and here again your dealer is at your service. Ask him for the free Anthracite Conservation Folder, which tells all the ways of getting more heat from less coal.

WHAT TO DO

- Take whatever size of household Anthracite your dealer has available. You can burn all the domestic sizes satisfactorily in any heater. Just remember—the larger the size, the less the draft, the deeper the fuel bed. With smaller sizes, use more draft, a thinner fuel bed.
- Play fair in estimating what you have on hand. You may still have coal in your cellar when a neighbor with illness or small children in the household has an empty bin.
- Order well in advance—be sure to be home when the coalman comes.
- Get your FREE Anthracite Conservation Folder—and follow instructions. Faithfully!

The tests that come before the test of battle

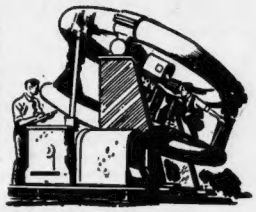
MEN MAY RISE above themselves to meet the test of battle, but equipment must be built that way. Good enough to match the performance of American boys at their inspired best. Tough enough to meet their need when the going gets toughest. To be sure that it is, every piece of G-E battle equipment is subjected to pre-battle tests that sometimes combine the pitch of a destroyer's bridge, the earthquake of a battleship's guns, the screaming 9 G. pull-out of a fighter plane's dive, the 60 degree below zero cold of substratosphere flight—all rolled into one. These tests are tough because the conditions under which our forces are fighting today are the toughest under which men have ever fought—from desert heat to substratosphere cold, in the same plane, almost in the same minute! Equipment dies on the testing stand, but lives are saved in battle.

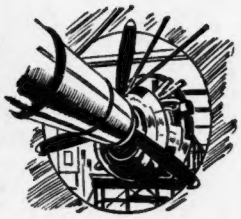
BODY, BOOTS, AND BRITCHES, goggles and gloves of the G-E flying suit are electrically heated to keep bomber crews warm at high altitudes. But what happens if the plane is forced down, and the power is cut off? To find out if the suits, unheated, were warm enough and tough enough, G-E engineers put them on and climbed Mt. Washington in the dead of winter. The suits passed this, and every other test.

BUMP TEST FOR LAMP BULBS. No Humpty Dumpties are these G-E lamp bulbs, which take a fall from 6 to 30 inches every time their revolving cage turns over. G-E lamps, radio equipment, and control devices must take their share of shocks in battle along with the bombers and tanks and battleships they ride.

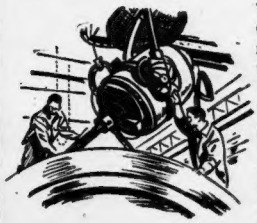
Rx FOR SEASICKNESS. Lots of people get seasick just looking at the Scoresby tester when it goes through its motions. But G-E naval equipment which can meet the test, among other tests, of this pitching, rolling buckin' bronco ride is fit for sea duty in rough weather—in carrier, or battleship, or destroyer, or PT boat, or landing craft.



WHAT KIND OF WEATHER DO YOU WANT? The engineers who control this turbo-supercharger test from an instrument board in the next room have all kinds of weather at their finger tips, from 120 degrees above to 100 degrees below. All aircraft equipment—from motors, to radios, to instruments—must operate equally well under extreme heat or extreme cold.



WHEN THE EARTH DISAPPEARS in fog or night, pilots depend on G-E electrically driven gyros to tell them such things as "which way is up." These girls are testing the horizon gyroscope's ability to keep itself on the level—one of many tests that G-E aircraft instruments must pass to prove they are worthy of the pilot's trust. Such gyros are also the "brains" of the automatic pilot.



TURBINES CAN'T HAVE WEAK CHESTS. One reason our fighting ships can cruise farther, faster, is the high-pressure, high-temperature steam turbines that drive them. G-E research and engineering developed metals to withstand such temperatures and pressures, and X-ray tests for turbine parts. The idea of X-ray testing has spread throughout industry, and the G-E million-volt X-ray is almost standard equipment for this work.

THESE ARE JUST a few of the more unusual tests to which a few of the many items of G-E war equipment are put. The greatest test of all is the experience of the maker, the years of research and engineering, the background of engineering and of manufacturing skill, which goes into the design, development, and making of every product. General Electric research and engineering, which were available to you in many products bearing the G-E Monogram before the war, which will again be available to you in many new and improved products after the war, are now available to the man you know in the armed services, in every piece of battle equipment G. E. builds. General Electric Company, Schenectady, New York.

Tomorrow It's New Stamps and Tokens

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Ten-point ration stamps and red and blue tokens as change will ease into use throughout the country starting tomorrow.

The new ration currency for buying meats, dairy products and processed foods becomes valid then, but the Office of Price Administration (OPA) expects light exchange for the first day since most stores will be closed. But the new system will get a full-blown test Monday with resumption of heavier buying.

The stamps to be used under the new plan are all in ration book No. 4—blue for processed foods and red for meats and fats. Each stamp has a 10-point value regardless of the figure on the face.

The first red stamps valid for meat are A-8, B-8 and C-8. They may be used through May 20. Every two weeks three new stamps will become valid.

Blue processed food stamps will be validated in sets of five at the start of each month, with the first series—A-8, B-8, C-8, D-8 and E-8—good through May 20.

As change for their 10-point stamps, housewives will get tokens—blue in processed food purchases and red for meats and dairy products—and these will be good indefinitely. In no case, however, may stamps be cashed outright for a full 10 points in tokens. This nine tokens will be the most received as change for any stamp.

Along with the new stamps, brown stamps Y and Z for meats and green stamps K, L and M for processed foods will be used until they expire, March 20. But unlike the new stamps, they will have figure 8, 5, 2 and 1-point values, as at present. While they remain in use, one-point green and brown stamps will be given as change, supplementing the token currency.

Kelly in Race For Governor

In a statement that also clarified his stand on the Presidential delegation from this state, former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly today revealed he plans to run for the governorship at the fall election.

"I have friends on the delegate-at-large slate and friends who are candidates on rival slates," he said in regard to the delegation.

"In addition, a great many Democrats who are sincerely interested in the success of the party in November feel I will be nominated in the primary and, with the aid of independent and some liberal Republican voters, will be elected the next governor.

"Accordingly, for the sake of party harmony and success in November of all Democratic nominees, national, state and local, I shall not be a candidate for delegate."

"...AND I GO WHEN I'M ORDERED TO ...IT'S A BREAK FOR SERVICE-MEN WHEN PEOPLE PLAN THEIR TRIPS AS YOU DO"

"WE TRAVEL when travel is lightest"

To keep transportation moving at top efficiency is a major wartime job—and a major share of that job is being done by Greyhound and other intercity bus lines. You can help buses do their job better by planning your travel wisely. Take extra care in choosing your time to travel — pick off-hours, off-days, off-seasons whenever possible. By going when travel is lightest — on mid-week days, in Winter, early Spring or late Fall — you'll be more comfortable, and you'll save space in crowded periods for men in uniform and war workers who must travel then. You'll help still more by traveling light — by getting all information and tickets well in advance.

Launch 11th Big Carrier Since Pearl Harbor

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (INS)—The U. S. S. Bennington, 11th carrier of the 27,000-ton Essex class launched since the attack on Pearl Harbor, was christened today with the hope that before she is ready for battle U. S. forces will have retaken Wake island.

It was the first U. S. S. Bennington, a gunboat that took possession of Wake for the United States in 1899. At the second Bennington's launching today, Asst. Navy Sec. for Air Artemus L. Gates expressed hope "this great ship will not be too late to retake Wake Island."

"We can hope," added Gates, "that it will soon take its proper place with its sister carriers in the Pacific spearheading the attacks that are daily adding to the air bridge to our destination—Tokyo."

Gates paid tribute to the ship and air crews of the carriers which have "greatly influenced our destinies to date."

"Without our plane carriers and their well trained aviators," he said, "Australia and New Zealand might today be provinces of Japan's 'greater East Asia co-prosperity sphere' and the Japanese fleet might be carrying on attacks at will against our west coast and the American continent, and the U-boat might still be our No. 1 menace.

"If we had more ships of this type today we could not only be striking the enemy body blows in the Central Pacific, but carrying on simultaneously body blows in the Netherlands and East Indies, the Indian Ocean, the Kurile Islands and even the empire itself."

Have a "Coke" = Muchas felicidades
(MANY CONGRATULATIONS)

. . . or a way to win people in Venezuela

Your Yank oil-driller in South America has his own way of getting along. Have a "Coke", he says to the natives, and he strikes the spark of friendship in Carácas as in Cleveland. It says, I'm your pal, in any language. In a world-wide way, Coca-Cola stands for the pause that refreshes,—has become the genial gesture of friendliness. So, of course, Coca-Cola ought to be in your icebox at home, too.

"Coke" = Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke".

ing that his brother, John, had gone home on a furlough.

It was homely, plain-people's stuff, this swapping of home-town chat and banter. It would have been banal guff back home. But out here men go back toward early simplicities.

Yet, always behind his trading of small talk, you could see that "Tough-guy Connors" had a grave, appraising eye with which he measured his men. For a chaplain in this man's Army must be part psychiatrist, part cracker-barrel lawyer, part barrack room diplomat and ALL "solid sender" as the Army says it.

Any fake or falsity is detected as unerringly by these men as the cracked tone of a church bell. "Let's look up the bean eaters," said the "Tough Guy." He knew them all!

There was Sergt. Ernest W. DiMarzio of 7 Elliott ave., Readville, who won his rating as a radio electrician from experience gained with Theodore McElroy's Radio Telegraph Co., and who has had to drop his hobby of photography.

And Corp. Peter A. Strozzi of 11 Fourth st., East Cambridge, who trucked for Raphael Musto, and married Nancy (Reale) in June of '42.

And mild-mannered First Lieut. George L. Connolly of 15 Oakland st., Arlington, Harvard '42, whose dad, George, Sr., is chief of the dental staff at the Carney Hospital. (George, Jr., is aide to a brigadier.)

And Pfc. William D'Amico of 11 Concord ave., Norwood, who just spent a furlough with brother-in-law, Sergt. Natal Balich, and who used to play the "doghouse" or bull fiddle, in Frank Mullin's orchestra back home.

And Staff Sergt. Jacob "Jack" M. Kargir of 115 Colbourne Crescent, Brookline, an ex-member of Sam Smith's Y. M. H. A. who hears "every day" from Ruth Santor.

And Corp. James J. McCarthy of 16 Prospect Hill ave., Somerville, a "wool puller" for Swift Co. under C. T. Oldenberg, and is kept happy by Margaret Coughlin's three-a-week letters.

Fortnightly Confessions

And Corp Frank Castignetti of 1420 Salem st., Malden, who wants Harold Brownson to keep his old job open with Rowe Contracting Co. and to tell his mother, Mrs. Mary, he "misses those breakfasts in bed."

And Tech Sergt. Harold E. "Piky" McCutcheon of 11 Rhinecliffe st., Arlington, who drives a truck for the Army instead of S. S. Learnard Co. (Feneuil Hall) and recently met John Sharkey, whose dad is a sergeant in the Belmont police.

And 1st Lieut. Robert M. Gauthier of 24 South Walker st., Lowell, a splendid specimen of top kick, who belongs to Fr. Gallagher's St. Margaret's parish, and wishes he could be home to shovel snow for his mother.

And Pfc Frank J. Costello of 82 Claybourne st., Dorchester, a cannoneer, who worked for Jordan Marsh delivery service under Steve Carey, and whose classroom teacher at Dorchester High was "Mister Cady."

And Corp. Frank Santos of 8 Valley st., Fall River, who judges the Army meat ration by the choice cuts he used to slice in his dad, Joseph's, meat market.

And 1st Sergt. Sheldon B. Stoddard of 17 Doane st., Cohasset, 100F who went to B. U. and worked on his uncle, Howard Bates' farm. (He appreciates the copies of "South Shore Life" he gets regularly from the Cohasset Rotary.)

One thing Fr. "Tough-guy" is adamant about with his flock—fortnightly confessions. And the writer says this as one who was reared an Anglican Protestant: that such confessions have a therapeutic as well as a spiritual value for men, such as these, whose emotions are often pent in to the point of self-poison. They need an outlet, an escape valve for their inner pressure. Confession to these war-imposed exiles acts as a wholesome release.

All Attend Services

For I notice this—dare I call it a phenomenon — among these "prisoners of circumstance" that Catholic, Protestant or Hebrew, they turn out to Sunday services in force, by choice and not compulsion. They turn toward faith as an anchorage—faith that the people at home are giving them a square deal, faith that they will be coming back some day to postwar security, faith that the American way of life, as they knew it, will survive."

"Here's a fellow that every New Englander should know," said Fr. Connors, leading over a bony giant with a captain's silver quotation marks on his shoulders—Bill McGonagle of 9 Graylock rd., Allston. Bostonians know Bill's dad, Edward A., as a power in Frank Goodwin's Department of Motor Vehicles.

Bill is one of the few Americans entitled to wear the British Military Cross with a citation that reads, with the laconic coldness of directions on a bottle of shampoo, "with a battery of artillery, alone and without the support of infantry, they faced an attack by the Tenth German Panzer Division at Thala on Feb. 22, ordered to the top of a hill to fire on the enemy tanks within open sights, and despite the loss of three of his guns through direct hits he directed his battery until it had stopped the attack."

By previous experience I knew better than to try to get this out of Bill. He talked about his wife, Hildegarde (Hiller) and Bill, Jr., (2½) and Edward (6 months, whom he has not yet seen).

All Think of Home

Late today I stood with a little knot of New Englanders—artillerymen. At least six times I was asked, "When're you going home?" I knew why! They sought the second-hand, vicarious thrill of being told, "Oh pretty soon," for the sake of letting imagination escape, bird free, from bodily confinements.

I'm certain that they all heard my answer, a defensive, "Probably not for a long time," yet a moment later one would ask again, "When're you going home?" In their mind's eye they wanted to travel along with me.

There was Pvt. Walter T. Quigley of Laurel ave., Billerica, who used to do work with his father, Festus G., as a stone mason, and plans to open a "beer club after this is over."

And Pfc. Albert Havener of 152 Maplewood ave., Gloucester, who was once a shell-fisherman for John Wright. And Victor S. Tamagna of 186 London st., East Boston, an ex-candy cutter for Standard Chocolate, and pleased with the wrist watch his sister, Rose, sent.

And Stanley A. Norvick of 787 Columbia rd., Dorchester, who was born in the U. S. A. but spent 17 of his 21 years in Poland. And Pvt. Lawrence J. Gould of 43 Edgewater rd., Nantasket Beach, who knows Parke O'Brien, worked as a carpenter for Malcolm Douglas and married Phyllis (Lamm) February of '41.

And Pvt. Raymond W. Charron of 326 Chestnut st., North Attleboro, who took care of Sam Rustin's estate, and says his brother, Frank, writes he has a "rough idea I'm coming home soon." And Pfc. Henry W. Shimkoski of 30 Superior rd., Worcester, who did "side lasting" in Klevins-Spencer shoe shop, says his wife, Theresa (Di Liddo's) "letter-a-day" keeps the blues away, and has never seen his 9-months-old daughter, Elaine.

It's astonishing how many of these lads know their youngsters only by snapshot photos. You don't have to ask them to haul them out—the action is almost automatic. "That's her at 2 months," they say, then "and here she is at 4."

Leap Year Babies to Celebrate First Birthday

Mary Ann Lawson Wears Her Scottish Party Dress

Once in Four—Arlene Louise, Norton of Brookline is quite perplexed over having a birthday only once every four years when her sister, Bettyann, 10, has one every year. International News Photos by Edwin Stephan

They're 1 at 4 On 29th--See?

BOSTON'S leap-year babies are a very smart group, but at the age of 4 years, it's pretty hard to understand that you're really only 1 year old.

Because Julius Caesar's astronomers drafted a lopsided calendar, many Greater Boston children born on February 29, 1940, are this year celebrating their first birthday.

Their parties, to be held Feb. 28, are going to be all-out affairs with the whole neighborhood there and their mothers and dads seeing to it that the festivities make up for lost birthdays.

Extra Special Gift

An extra-special gift came for the day to Mary Anne Lawson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Lawson of Lindbergh ave., West Newton. Her father gave her a doll, and the dress she is wearing came from abroad.

"It's my Scotland dress. It's a nice dress, because I won't have a party until four years more," said Mary Anne.

The dress came from her godmother, Lieut. Edith Duncan, the first Newton girl to join the Army nurses, now stationed in Great Britain.

Even though she's one of nine children, the Leap Year birthday party of Patricia Brown when she turns 4, will cut plenty of ice in the family.

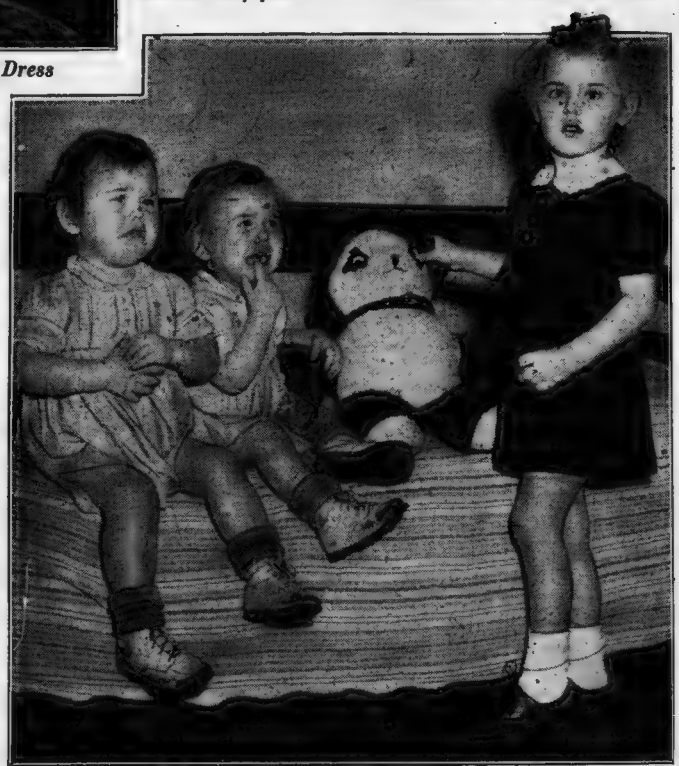
She's the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown of Horan Way, Roxbury, and her 2-year-old twin sisters, Ruth and Marie gave Pat a present that really hurt to part with.

Cried Over Their Gift

It was their pet Panda, and they cried when they saw it go, but then—they've had one more birthday than big sister so they aren't really complaining.

Arlene Louis Norton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Norton of Washington st., Brookline, has been looking at the calendar a long time, and her mother has been trying to explain how she happened to be born on a day that came once every four years.

"When I am two I will get a bicycle, and when I am three I will get a party dress, and when I am four I will drive an auto," said Arlene, delighted to be born on such a distinctive date.



Indian Givers—With sister Patricia having her first birthday on Feb. 29, the Brown twins, Marie and Ruth, decided to give her their cherished baby Panda . . . but they changed their minds when Patricia decided to take over the gift. When the photographer left, the tears were dried . . . and the Panda was sitting between them.

A Commendable Policy

THE RECENTLY-FORMED "Council on Postwar Foreign Policy," created by Secretary of State Cordell Hull for the avowed purpose of "taking the American people closer into its confidence in the formulation of diplomacy in the postwar world," is a laudable enterprise.

If it is sincere and genuine, the purpose of the State Department merits the approval of the American people.

The people of the United States certainly SHOULD be taken into the confidence of the Government of the United States in determining foreign policy.

It is surely the BUSINESS of the American people to know what their relationships with other nations are to be after the war.

The term of peace they will enjoy after this war is concluded will be determined by those relationships.

The prosperity they will enjoy will be largely determined by them.

The democratic institutions of America and the freedom of the American people, and their adherence to the American way of life they are fighting to preserve in the present war, and must sustain after the war—all will be affected by foreign relations and foreign policy.

Hence, it is the RIGHT of the people to be taken into the confidence of their government, in order that they may be sure the relations decided upon and put in effect will be strictly and exclusively in the AMERICAN INTEREST.

If the American people are consulted by their government, many pitfalls of foreign policy will be avoided.

No program of foreign policy formulated with the knowledge and approval of the American people will ever create foreign alliances and commitments charging the United States with an obligation to participate in future wars which the United States has not provoked, in which the United States has not been offended and in which the United States has no interest.

No program of foreign policy formulated with the consent of the American people will ever obligate the United States to defend foreign empires erected upon conquest and aggression.

THE AMERICAN PEOPLE are instinctively tolerant and considerate of other peoples.

They are traditionally peaceful.

They are not imperialistic. They have no ambitions or aspirations to be fulfilled through dominance over the territories or affairs of other nations.

No foreign policy formulated by the American people would ever be conceived in a spirit of superiority over the rest of the world, or would ever be expressed in a spirit of IMPOSED philosophy or forms of government or rules of conduct upon the rest of the world.

The American State Department will learn these fundamental things from the American people, if it takes them into its confidence in the manner suggested by creation of the new Council on Postwar Foreign Policy.

It is a matter of previous and current regret and tragedy that the people have not ALWAYS been so consulted by the American Government.

The United States would have been foresightedly prepared for national defense, and amply armed to protect itself, long before December 7, 1941, if the people had been in the confidence of their government.

Secret diplomacy, secret foreign alliances and commitments, secret obligations assumed by the American Government in the name of the American people but not with their knowledge or consent—these are the pitfalls of foreign policy which it is vital for us to avoid in the future.

Tidy New England Women

ELIZABETH HAWES, noted fashion authority, has been quoted in Chicago as saying "the country's women, generally, are looking awful."

Mrs. Hawes goes on to express the opinion that:—

"Women dress for men and men are gone now, so women are letting themselves go. The few men who are left notice it.

"What men want in women's looks is neatness. Hair, makeup and nails take time, but women should find some way to cope with them."

We are sure Mrs. Hawes is not talking about New England women. Five minutes spent on Washington street or Commonwealth avenue would be sufficient to show her that the Yankee reputation for fastidiousness is not apt to be a war casualty.

Why Paper Campaign Lags

A CHECKUP by the American Institute of Public Opinion has shown that nearly nine million households were uninformed of the United States Victory Waste Paper Campaign.

Consequently millions of pounds of paper urgently needed by the armed forces and defense industries has not been salvaged.

Patriotic groups in every community should try to overcome this unfortunate situation by acquainting all families with the information that each old newspaper, each old book and each fragment of wrapping paper should be turned over to an authorized collector as soon as possible.

Not a scrap of it can be overlooked.

A man though he be gray-haired
Can always get a wife,
But a woman's time is short.
—ARISTOPHANES.

IN HIS statement as above there is no doubt Aristophanes was in possession of something. However, in his day a woman's time to get a matrimonial mate was much shorter than now. Then if a girl hadn't married by 21 she was an old maid. Nowadays a woman's chances are still good when she is 40. The other day a Pittsburgh woman of 42 married for the first time. Of course, it must be admitted this particular woman, due to her cleverness, looked to be about 31.

HOW ABOUT the school teacher of your children? Ever meet her? You should. What's her salary? Probably not nearly what she is worth. In 1943 more than 250,000 school teachers in the United States were paid less than $1000 each a year . . . Congresswoman Clare Boothe Luce has five secretaries. That's quite a staff. Even Jack Warner, the film producer, has only eight.

The first secretary I had was my best one. She was 21. I was 23. She was very strict with me. Not long ago she was asked: "Do you know Ed Darling?" She said: "Know him? I practically raised him."

FIRST TIME: How did you feel when the man you subsequently married first kissed you? Don't answer me. I shouldn't have asked. I was only inspired to do so by coming upon the following excerpt from the observations of S. S. Cox: "A tender, sensitive young female tells how she felt when her sweetheart first kissed her—like a tub of roses, swimming in honey, cologne, nutmeg and blackberries." (Note—Seems a little complicated to me. But, as you know, I am just studying to try to understand women and am still in the freshman class.—EVD.)

SAYS HE: "Why shouldn't physically fit young women be drafted?" writes a Marine. "Take these volunteer pin-up girls who send allegedly alluring photos to men in the armed forces. No doubt these glamorous females get quite a patriotic glow out of sending pictures to fighting men. They seem to feel that by permitting men to gaze at their photographs they have done their bit. As for me, and I know a lot of Marines in the same position, I have a pin-up girl; my wonderful wife. In fact, I have two pin-up girls; the other is my beautiful 3-year-old daughter. I suggest some of these volunteer pin-up girls volunteer for the WACs, WAVEs, SPARs or Marines and help preserve the faith of fighting men in American womanhood."

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: What was the largest field of horses you have seen? A—I saw 28 race on the Widener course at Belmont. Largest field I heard of was the 66 horses that ran in the Liverpool Grand National of 1929 . . . Q—Former Congressman Bernard J. Gehrmann of Wisconsin is the father of 14 children. Is that the record for Congressmen? A—We have no data on the kiddies of Congressmen. President Tyler, however, had 14 children. He was married twice. President William Harrison, married once, had 10 children. They were the leading Presidential papas . . . Q—Has there been a depression in this country about every 20 years since the Civil War? A—Depressions since Civil War have been in 1873-1893-1907-1921-1929.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL. Real wealth consists of things, not money. I don't know who said that first but he was right. Keep it in mind, young fellow . . . New Yorker says every time she feels she has a grievance against her husband she doesn't pop off angrily but writes him a letter about it. She says this system works very well and has cut domestic arguments to a minimum at her house.

MARRIAGE: Marriage is still a huge success. I mean the horse. That honest, courageous descendant of Man O' War just won another $25,000 race. The only time Marriage does not run satisfactorily is when he has not slept well. That's why on occasions he ends up an also-ran. Horses are like people. They do their best when they feel their best. There was a horse on the Pacific Coast that would win four races in a row and in the next finish last. The finger of suspicion was pointed at his owners. Investigation revealed the horse won on sunny days and lost on damp, rainy or foggy days. He suffered from rheumatism.

My Day By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Friday —I left Washington last night by train and got off at Clarksburg, W. Va., this morning to visit the Naval Cadet Flight School at Jackson's Mill. I leave around noon to go to Pittsburgh, Pa., and from there to New York city tonight

This gives me the opportunity to mention today one or two things which have been on my mind, though I have not had the space to write about them. One is the new venture of the American Association on Indian Affairs. Mr. Carl Carmer has volunteered to edit a magazine called "The American Indian." His editorship insures good material, and there is interest in the magazine, for most of the work will be done by volunteers.

THEY REALLY CARE about the groups of Indians which we still have dotted throughout our country, and they want to see them understood and well handled.

Survey Associates has just sent me its special number of "Survey Graphic" on American-Russian relations. One little fact should be stressed more often. How often does one think of the fact that our country and Russia are only thirty miles apart at one particular point.

Since after the war there is to be great development in Siberia, we had better study that strange land.

PERHAPS IT IS through their art that we will gradually come to understand the Russian people. Those I have met I have liked, and they certainly show traits of character which are similar to our own. They can adjust to changing conditions just in the way that we do. Is that a trait of youthful nations, or does it simply mean that we both have great virility and resiliency?

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26—The nice little sum of $75,000 has just been sent to Patrick Hamilton, author of "Angel Street," by 20th Century-Fox, for the rights to his psychological horror novel, "Hangover House."

The money has been ready for Author Hamilton for quite a spell, but he couldn't be located. Finally, he was found in the British Navy and the deal was made.

Merle Oberon

There is all the horror and excitement of "The Lodger," the surprise movie of the year, in "Hangover House." It's doing a landslide business, and in New York all he kids were asking Laird Cregar, the scary "lodger," for his autograph. Merle Oberon and Laird will again be starred with Barre Lyndon, who adapted "The Lodger," and Robert Bassler, who produced it, doing their same jobs.

FOR MONTHS it has been whispered on the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer lot that an effort would be made to team Margaret O'Brien and Wallace Beery in the type of picture he and Jackie Cooper made in the heyday of Jackie's childhood popularity. There is no better box-office material than the big, tough bad man and the innocent little "cheeild." The thing that stood in the way of teaming Wally and Margaret was the lack of a story. But now they have found it in D. A. Loxley's "Bad Bascomb," in which Wally plays a Wyoming bandit who is reformed by the aforesaid innocent "cheeild." She, of course, being little Margaret O'Brien, who has stepped into Shirley Temple's sandals as the most loved little girl of the screen.

Fanny is expecting to become a grandmother in the next few weeks and she is delighted. She says her daughter wants a girl, and she wants a boy.

Star Shine

By Sidney Skolsky

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 26—They are filming a scene for "Wilson," and Alexander Knox is playing the title role. The setting is the famous Blue Room of the White House, and the time is election night, 1916.

Judy Garland

Wilson is sitting with his family and closest friends awaiting the election returns. Geraldine Fitzgerald, who plays Mrs. Wilson, is the most nervous of all as the returns trickle in. Wilson, endeavoring to be unperturbed, is reading aloud to a group from a sheet of paper:

"The weakest man I ever knew in a high place," Wilson reads. "If I wanted to paint a despot, a man perfectly regardless of every constitutional right of the people, I would paint his hideous form."

Wilson pauses and looks around the group. Then Wilson continues:

"When he goes out of office next March, the whole country except thieves, cowards, public plunderers, office holders and traitors will rejoice."

Mrs. Wilson can remain silent no longer. "Woodrow, this is the last straw!" she says. "You've got to do something about it! They have no right to say any such things about you—even to win an election."

Wilson pretends to be surprised by her outburst. "Oh," he replies drily, "they weren't talking about me. That's what they said about Abraham Lincoln when he was running for re-election"

JUDY GARLAND and Tom Drake are working at night on the back lot at Metro for a sequence in "Meet Me in St. Louis."

These nights are very chilly, and, typically Hollywood, the scene was supposed to be in the middle of summer. Judy sat in her portable dressing room, bundled in a coat and drinking coffee, waiting until they were ready for her.

When the call came, Judy saw that her make-up was perfect took off her coat and walked into the scene wearing a lovely summer dress. Tom Drake had taken off his heavy overcoat and stood there, a little chilly, waiting to make love to Judy.

They spoke their lines, but it was no take. For as soon as they said their lines, the illusion of summer was broken. You know how it is—their breath came out "steaming."

However, nothing stops the movies. As cold as it was, Judy Garland and Tom Drake had to chew ice before they could make love. But it did the trick for the camera!

President vs. Congress

By George E. Sokolsky

THE CONGRESSIONAL revolt, led by Senator Barkley, was inevitable if the Constitution was not to be forgotten and made useless by acts of attrition on the part of the President.

The American constitutional pattern consciously prevents the tyranny of officialdom from substituting for the law. The Constitution diffuses the center of power, so that while the President possesses authority, it is circumscribed by Congress; yet Congress is given no power of enforcement, its decisions depending upon the responsibility of the President for administration. Both may fall before the courts which the President appoints, the Senate confirms and the House of Representatives joins in providing revenue.

Most of our Presidents recognized this tripartite system as inviolable and managed to get along with it. Article I of the Constitution—its very first provision after a preamble states:

"All legislative powers herein granted shall be vested in a Congress of the United States, which shall consist of a Senate and House of Representatives."

THIS IS the keystone of the American system. Congress represents the people, but no individual Senator or Representative speaks for the whole people of the United States: only for those who voted in the particular area from which he was elected: a Senator for the people of a particular state: a Representative for the people of a particular district.

Congress cannot legislate at will any more than the President can act at will. When the Constitution says: "All legislative powers herein granted," it limits the Congress, the President and the courts, for none of these may pass, approve or adjudicate legislation for which there is no constitutional sanction. Great differences of opinion have arisen over this, but it has been well established that "every valid act of Congress must find in the Constitution some warrant for its passage." The essence of the American theory of government is that no whimsical or capricious official attitudes are to be tolerated. The President of the United States is not a boss.

THIS RELATIONSHIP between the President and Congress has been firmly established and every sound President has functioned within its narrow margins. Those Presidents who failed to get along with Congress have been generally repudiated by the people, because what becomes involved is not the personality of the President or the goodness or badness of Congress but the workability of the American government.

Members of the House of Representatives usually reflect public opinion more closely than any other elected or appointed officials. They stand for election every two years. They dare never to permit themselves to be out of touch with their constituents. A President may employ the glamour of his office or the course of events to see him through a campaign for re-election. A Senator sits for the prolonged period of six years, during most of which he can gamble upon the forgetfulness of the mass-mind.

BUT HE is responsible only to his own constituents. That is what the American system requires of him. Therefore, as different as Messrs. Rankin and Dickstein are, they both respond to the attitudes, desires and prejudices of their constituents. They are not intended to be great statesmen: they are intended to be representatives of particular segments of the American people.

A President who quarrels with Congress soon enough discovers that he is quarrelling with those who sent these particular representatives to Congress. President Roosevelt once attempted to purge a group of senators and a representative on the grounds that they displeased and opposed him. He failed. If the President attempts a purge in 1944, he will fail again. Purges are repugnant to the American spirit. Purges run counter to the theory and tradition of American life. They represent an alien transplanting. They are a frontal attack on the Constitution which for real Americans still is binding upon all.

Cynthia Waters Home on Visit

By BETTY ALDEN

CYNTHIA WATERS, Brookline society girl who had a fling at newspaper work for several years before the war, never thought she possessed a talent for hotel management or public speaking, but her war experience has given her remarkable finesse in both.

She has just returned from England where she was a Red Cross staff assistant, organized and ran recreation centers for American boys. Last summer she opened a big club in Worcester where she was in full charge with a staff of 75 English chefs, dish washers, bed makers, etc., and a steady stream of doughboys beating a path to the door for relaxation, food and shelter.

Here at home she is making three and four speeches a day at Red Cross rallies. "Public speaking is a cinch when you have so much to talk about," she has discovered.

"I wouldn't trade my experience over there for anything," she told the women's special gifts division at the Red Cross yesterday. "If you could only see the smiles of joy when G. I.'s see and talk to American girls. Or when a clubmobile drives up to an isolated air base with coffee and doughnuts, victrola blasting forth with boogie woogie and three Red Cross gals all set to dance with the boys (often in mud over their ankles) you'd realize how much the recreation program means."

SISTER ALSO SERVES WITH THE RED CROSS

SALLY WATERS ELTING, her sister, is also a Red Cross staff assistant and has won wide acclaim for her work at the famous Rainbow Corner club in London. She and Cynthia were constantly meeting Bostonians in England and among those Cynthia mentioned are Virginia Ellis who is doing a grand job organizing the clubmobiles; Mary Laverack who is doing recreation work; Anstiss Kimball who did so much volunteer service for the Junior League at home; Kathleen Crocker, and Mrs. James Mackie, the former Marcia Hopkins of Boston, who lives in Belfast, Ireland, and does a splendid job working at the Red Cross recreation center there.

As for coming home Cynthia is most impressed with street lights, shop windows bulging with pretty things, and the abundance of good food. "At the clubs we did the best we could to doctor up the limited variety of food on English rations. The time last summer we got bushels of corn on the cob from a local farmer was a wonderful, wonderful day, and it tasted just like our corn."

She is having a reunion with her mother, Mrs. Bertram G. Waters of Brookline, and will continue to make her fascinating speeches until reassigned.

Beauty

Exercises Guide To Form You Want

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE

THERE'S NO GETTING AWAY from it . . . beautiful figures are not an accident . . . except in the rarest of cases. In the illusion capital . . . where beauty of face and form is the stock in trade of every aspiring young actress . . . a gal simply must look to her lines . . . for the camera is a hard and unrelenting task master.

No hopeful star can allow herself to slump . . . nor can she for a moment forget . . . that only through keeping her figure limber and exercised . . . will she retain lissome loveliness.

And, what the stars must do in their pursuit after cinema acclaim . . . every beauty-bent girl at home must adopt . . . to maintain a lithe, feminine figure . . . especially these days when the silhouette fashions make such an outline a peremptory requisite of captivating smartness.

A little will-power to refrain from weight-producing delicacies . . . A little time to don that bathing suit in the privacy of your boudoir . . . and a persistence to reach the set goal . . . and any gal can trim and slim that silhouette to amazing lissomeness of appealing girlishness.

LOOK TO YOUR LINES, MILADY . . . if you want top billing at your favorite beach next summer . . . for swim suits are abbreviated and revealing . . . and a gal with anything but a lissome figure won't stand a chance. Basic exercises . . . faithfully followed daily . . . will help you achieve a form as lovely and lithe as beauteous Warner Star Julie Bishop.

LIMBER UP YOUR MUSCLES

For, the time is not far distant . . . when you will be lolling on the beach . . . basking your body under the sun's rays in a revealing swim suit. Or can't you bear the thought of it . . . knowing your present dimensions? You must face it, my dear . . . for swim suits will be sleek and abbreviated this summer . . . predestined by priorities . . . and revealing to the nth degree.

Here are a few exercises to help you achieve the lovely form you desire. They are basic and result-producing drillers which will limber up your muscles and . . . AND if you supplement it with a teensie weensie diet . . . you'll be able to find "happiness in your own back yard."

A wonderful toner-upper is this exercise. Stretch out on the floor on your back . . . and with something heavy in each hand . . . preferably a dumbell, if you have one . . . pull yourself up to a sitting position . . . then over until you touch your toes with the weights . . . returning to the original position. Do this three or four times for the first few days and gradually increase until you can do it 10 times daily, at least.

FOR THAT WAISTLINE

For slimming down the waistline . . . and for thinning the back . . . here is one which is tops. With the hands outstretched over the head . . . locked together or clasping a ball . . . swing deep down from side to side . . . stretching each muscle until you can feel the pull all the way down your thighs.

Then there is the imaginary bicycle exercise in which you lie down on the floor and lift your legs to the ceiling, bracing your hands on your hips and elbows on the floor. Pretending you are bicycling along . . . push your legs back and forth with all your might and main.

There you have some of the reasons why Hollywood bodies are famous all over the world . . . as limber, lissome, lovely forms.

Baked Beans Modern Style

By MARTHA LEE

QUICK-FROZEN baked beans are now on the ration-free list, so wartime meal planners can make beans the appetizing mainstay of dinner, lunch or supper often.

This modern version of baked beans is literally work-free. The quick-frozen beans come right out of their carton ready to be heated for serving. Prepared by an old New England recipe, they are baked 12 hours in old-style bean pots and are the closest commercial approximation of the delicacy which took great-great-grandmother 24 hours of toil to achieve.

These beans are seasoned according to New England tradition, with molasses and pork. You can vary the seasoning to suit individual taste, however. They may be served with chili sauce or relish. One tablespoon of molasses or 1 tablespoon of mustard, mixed with 2 tablespoons of brown sugar, may be added before heating to vary the flavor. If heated in the oven, bacon may be placed on top during the last 15 minutes.

There are two methods of heating, in the oven or on top of the stove. If you heat on top of the stove, put the beans, with 2 tablespoons of water, in a saucepan, cover, and heat slowly, 25 minutes if frozen, 10 if thawed. To heat in the oven, put the quick-frozen baked beans in a baking dish, add the same amount of water and bake in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) 1 hour if frozen, 30 minutes if thawed. Stir gently three times during baking.

The early settlers in this country learned about beans from the Indians, who baked them in earthen pots in the embers of their fires. Cooking and fire-building were forbidden in the Massachusetts colony on the Sabbath, which began at sundown Saturday, and baked beans, palatable both hot and cold, soon became the regular Saturday night and Sunday morning standby.

The Puritan homemakers soaked the beans all Friday night, baked them all day Saturday, and served them hot for a nourishing Saturday night supper. Then the beans were popped back into the oven, which held enough heat to keep them warm for breakfast. Cold, they made good eating for the midday Sunday meal.

Leftover beans are just as good today as they were in those days—but we serve them now with a flourish—in soups, salads, sandwiches and in many made-dishes. Here are some suggestions:

BAKED BEAN SOUP

4 tbsp. butter or margarine
4 tbsp. flour ½ tsp. salt
4 cups stock, or water with 4 bouillon cubes 1 slice onion
⅛ tsp. pepper
1 cup leftover beans

Melt butter or margarine in a double boiler; then remove from the heat and add the flour, blending thoroughly. Add stock and onion and cook over boiling water until thickened, stirring frequently. Add salt and pepper. Add beans slowly to the stock mixture, stirring constantly. Makes 6 servings.

BAKED BEAN SALAD

Mix leftover baked beans with boiled dressing, or mayonnaise, or Russian dressing. Serve in lettuce cups, garnished with a tablespoon of the same dressing. Ketchup or prepared mustard, stirred into either the boiled dressing or mayonnaise, gives a sharper taste. Add minced onions or pickles, if desired.

New England Baked Beans

BAKED BEAN SANDWICHES

Leftover baked beans make delicious sandwich fillings. For toast sandwiches, reheat the beans and spread between slices of hot toast, with a sprinkling of ketchup. For baked bean club sandwiches, spread slices of toast with mashed baked beans, top with slices of hot buttered toast, then with sliced tomatoes, lettuce and mayonnaise, and then with a final slice of toast.

BAKED BEAN LOAF

1 cup baked beans
½ cup bread crumbs
1 egg ¼ cup ketchup
½ chopped onion

Grind or mash baked beans. Add chopped onion, ketchup and beaten egg. Make into a loaf and bake in a hot oven (375 deg. F.) for 30 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce. Makes 4 servings.

Tops in Spring Style Parade

POISE AND ELEGANCE are perfectly expressed in this dramatic spring highlight . . . a romantic white felt tricorne . . . accented with an ostrich pompon . . . and a dotted veil of intriguing wild grape color. Modishly worn by Paramount Starlet Betty Rhodes . . . to offset her new chignon hairdo . . . the headpiece will be a most popular fashion of the new season . . . especially white . . . which is stressed in both suits and hats for the spring mode. —R. U. S. Quashes A.&P. Trust Case

DALLAS, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Department of Justice announced today that it had nolle prossed an indictment returned by the Federal grand jury in Dallas Nov. 25, 1942, charging the New York Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co., 11 of its subsidiary companies and 16 officers and directors fo these companies with violation of the anti-trust laws in production, processing, sale and distribution of food and food products.

Asst. Atty.-General Wendell Berge, in charge of the anti-trust division, said the indictment was dismissed as a result of teh action of the court (Federal District Court in Dallas) Dec. 11 in striking portions of the indictment, particularly those relating to the charge.

The department's opinion, Berge said, was that this action cast grave doubt on the continued validity of the indictment and that eventual conviction under it would be unnecessarily subject to jeopardy on the ground that the court had rewritten or altered the indictment, which function was within the province of the grand jury.

PULPIT PRAISE OF RED CROSS COMES SUNDAY

Red Cross Sunday will be observed in churches of Greater Boston tomorrow and marked by a special Interfaith broadcast in the evening in which three of the city's leading clergymen will tell of Red Cross work throughout the world.

The broadcast, over Station WHDH at 8:15 p. m., will feature addresses by Rabbi Samuel J. Abrams of Temple Chabei Shalon; the Rev. James H. Doyle, director of the Catholic Charitable Bureau, and the Rev. Dr. Phillips E. Osgood, rector of Emmanuel Church.

Observance of Red Cross Sunday comes two days before the gala pre-campaign rally of the 1944 Red Cross War Fund to be held Tuesday night in Symphony Hall, with Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, as principal speaker. The rally will include a pageant and music by the Handel and Haydn Society and the Coast Guard Band.

Today was observed as Red Cross flag day and the red and white emblems were flown from public and private buildings.

The 1944 Red Cross War Fund opens March 1. The Greater Boston quota in the 22-day drive is $4,641,000.

Air Blitz

against a loss of 69 heavy bombers. The 15th lost 39 bombers, the Eighth 30.

Photographs made at Augsburg, Furth, a Stuttgart ballbearing plant, and Regensburg "showed good results," teh communique said.

IHT ITALIAN PORTS

The attack from Italy also was aimed at ports of Fiume and Pola, the Yugoslav port of Zara, and an airfield near Graz in southern Austria.

(A dispatch to Stockholmn by the German - controlled Scandinavian Telegraph Bureau today said. Great damage was caused at Fiume Thursday and Friday afternoons when American bombers raided the Italian port and 100 persons were killed.)

An intense air scrap with German rocket and cannon - firing plane lasted more than an hour over Regensburg, shown by photo reconnaissance to have been severely damaged.

From the size of the force heard leaving Britain last night for the blow at Augsburg, 300 miles southwest of Berlin, it was probable 2000 long tons of bombs were showered on that production center.

The communique, disclosing the attack was by two separate forces of Lancasters and Halifaxes, indicated use again of a new tactic employed by the RAF for the first time Thursday night against Schweinfurt.

GREAT U. S. RAIDS

Of the estimated nearly 20,000 tons of bombs poured upon Germany since last Sunday it was probable more than half had been accounted for by the powerful American Eighth and 15th Air Forces.

The greatest U. S. fighter group ever dispatched from British bases —estimated at more than 1000 planes—escorted the American bombers from England which dumped their loads on the Regensburg factory.

The assault marked the third time this week U. S. bombers from Britain and Italy struck at enemy targets at the same time, but it was the first tume they both hit at the same target simultaneously. The RAF also took up the two-way attack Thursday night, with British-based bombers striking at Schweinfurt while formations from Italy blasted Steyr.

One for All

TEMPLE, Tex., Feb. 26—Pfc. Warfeige A. Charles of Morristown, Pa., is a walking reminder of the League of Nations, Camp Hood's newspaper says.

In his given name, the WA stands for Wilson of America, RF for Raymond of France, EI for Emanuel of Italy and GE for George of England.

His middle name: Allies.

City Autos Cut Gas

Automobiles owned by the City of Boston are using 20 per cent less gasoline now than before the war, according to Francis X. Lang, city purchasing agent, in his report to the city council appropriations committee.

JVA Guests at Loew's State

Loew's State Theater was the "Mecca" for 1500 excited youngsters today when the doors were thrown open for a special film showing at which officers of the Junior Victory Army and sponsors of corps were guests.

Hosts at the party were Charles E. Kurtzman, Northeastern division manager of Loew's, Inc., and George Kraska, manager of Loew's State.

The film treat was one of a series which have been provided for the young JVA leaders in recognition of their work on the Home Front. Today's entertainment was a reward for the JVA waste paper salvage campaign and collections of other materials needed by Uncle Sam for war production.

Accompanying the JVA leaders were contingents of Camp Fire Girls and members of the Boston Boys' Clubs and Boston Girls' Clubs, all of whom have been carrying on vital war activities.

Frequent shouts and applause attested to the popularity of the two-hour showing.

To join the JVA, send your name, age and full address to Junior Victory Army, P. O. Box 228, Boston, Mass. If, in addition to enlistment, you want the JVA insignia pin and membership card, enclose a ten-cent coin, well-wrapped in your letter.

Read the next JVA story in the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

'Ank's Idea, Not Mine,' Lud Says of HC Parting

By HUCK FINNEGAN

Line Coach James R. Ludlow Wray took charge of Holy Cross football last fall when business pressure kept Head Coach Ank Scanlan away except on week-ends, lost Backfield Coach Jim Leonard through illness except for a few weeks, of the season, directed a skeleton band of Crusaders to a highly successful season and today had been fired for his pains.

Doesn't make sense, does it?

Announcement of Wray's discharge was as much of a surprise to HC officials as it was to the public at large. "First I knew of it was when I received Ank's letter saying he had hired a new line coach," said Faculty Director of Athletics John F. Devlin. (Ank's three-year contract gives him complete authority over his assistants.)

Scanlan could not be reached at his Philadelphia residence. "He's been out all evening, and we have no idea when he will be home," was the answer. Ank previously had told the AP he was "sorry to lose Wray after the grand job he did last season."

Wray's Statement

That isn't the way Wray heard it.

"I was told by friends that the radio announced the news three weeks ago," said Wray today from Philadelphia. "I didn't believe it of course, and Ank never brought up the subject until this week. Then he told me I was 'hard to get along with', that he had hired 'Ox' DaGrosa to replace me."

They had had no argument over money or authority, Wray added, and implied that Scanlan might have been motivated by jealousy.

"My relations with Holy Cross were the best," Wray went on. "Fr. Devlin and the rest were great all the way through. I can honestly say that I enjoyed last fall's campaign more than any other in my 25 years of coaching. Those 13 kinds fought like fury for me. I'll never forget them."

H. C. astounded the football world in its opener by holding powerhouse Dartmouth to a field goal triumph, gained in the last minute of play. It used only 11 men against the Green, and against Brown the next week used the same 11 for 57 minutes, an iron man stunt of epic proportions.

H. C. boasted the East's leading scorer in freshman Stan Koslowski and the Bulger Lowe award winner in tackle George Connor. They, with Capt. George Titus, were the nucleus of a team which defeated Brown 29-0, Coast Guard 32-0, Colgate 14-7, Temple 42-6, Villanova 12-7, Tufts 41-0. Only eleven to defeat the Crusaders besides Dartmouth was Cornell, a 20-7 game played in Ithaca's mud.

There was the thought that Wray might be quitting to take over a pro job, either in Philadelphia or perhaps even Boston.

Work in Same Plant

"Nothing of the sort," he replied. "I plan to stay in collegiate ranks, and hope to line up something in the next two weeks."

Funny thing, but Scanlan and Wray work for the same Philadelphia Asbestos Co. that Ank's father-in-law owns. Wray said he would continue to work there as a salesman despite his split with Ank.

They had been chums for years. After his sojourn as head coach of the Philly Eagles, Wray assisted Ank with St. Joseph's Prep in '36 and '37 and again in '41 after a hitch at Manhattan College. He came to HC with Scanlan at the start of the '42 season wherein HC salvaged a wretched early season by trouncing undefeated BC in its final game by a 55-13 count.

Enters H. C. Stage as Wray Exits

"I had lunch with Ank's father-in-law the other day," Wray concluded, "and he told me Ank would choose between HC and the Phila. Asbestos Co. next fall, that he wouldn't be splitting his time between both. Perhaps," and he chuckled, "I may return to HC again some day."

Wray was head coach of George Marshall's first Redskins eleven here. That was in '32. He spent the next three years with the Philly Eagles . . . Wray made two appearances at grid luncheons here last fall with George Connor and his "We play for keeps" is well remembered . . . Worcester newspapermen found Wray highly co-operative all season. "Not half so hard-boiled as he was in his pro days," they said.

Canucks Can Cop Title By Defeating Bruins

By BILL GRIMES

Coach Dick Irvin predicts that Les Canadiens will clinch the Prince of Wales Trophy, which is emblematic of the N. H. L. championship tonight in their 60 minute set-to with the Bruins in the Montreal Forum.

In 40 games, the Flying Frenchmen have amassed 65 points, while the Detroit Red Wings, who are in second place, have gathered only 46 points in the same number of contests. Therefore, if Les Canadiens beat the Rossmen they will be the new N. H. L. title holders, for the Wings could win all of their 10 remaining games and still be one point shy of the Frenchmen.

It's been 13 years since Les Canadiens were the N. H. L. champions. They won the Canadian Division title in 1931-32 and in 1936-37 but were eliminated in the play off for the league's crown by the Rangers and Detroit respectively.

Back in the spring of 1931, when Les Canadiens put out the Bruins, a scandal almost developed. It was in the first round of the Stanley Cup playoffs and is still referred to as "The Bad Series." If ever a club was jobbed out of world's championship, it was the Bruins. Mickie Ion, who refereed the series, with Bobby Hewitson, was declared barred from organized hockey for life. He was in the International Hockey League the next season and eventually returned to the N. H. L.

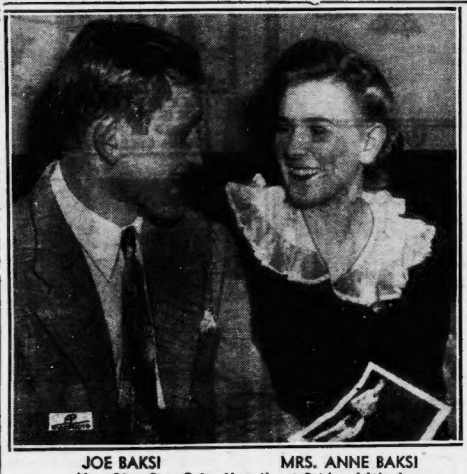
The Bruins, who have been away for 10 days, will return home tomorrow afternoon and will rest up for Tuesday's game with the Toronto Maple Leafs at the Garden.

Over the week-end, the Bruins can be almost eliminated from the play offs. If they lose to the Canadiens tonight and Chicago takes the measure of the Maple Leafs and Rangers, the Bruins will be three games behind the Hawks and Leafs, who will be deadlocked for third place, with only nine games remaining to be played, for each of the three clubs which are battling for two play off berths. That is almost an unsurmountable assignment, even with the great Cowley back in action.

Three Red Sox Sign Contracts

The Red Sox baseball squad approached playing strength today with the arrival of three signed contracts at Fenway Park.

They came from Outfielders Johnny Lazor and George Metkovich and Pitcher Clem Hausmann, a rookie drafted from Kansas City.



JOE BAKSI — MRS. ANNE BAKSI

New Ring Star Grins Happily at Bride of Week

His Victory Week: Ex-Miner Wins Bride, Beats Tami

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—The heavyweight fistic ranks had a new title threat today—and the new title threat had a bride.

The threat is 22-year-old Joe Baksi of Kulpmont, Pa., former anthracite coal miner who last night in a rough and rugged scrap before 16,015 fans in Madison Square Garden punched out a 10-round decision over Tami Mauriello of the Bronx.

Mauriello entered the ring as the No. 2 ranking challenger for Joe Louis' crown, and as a 5-12 favorite, but he left it a badly beaten boy.

Baksi, making his first main event start in the Garden, flattened him for a nine-count with a left hook to the jaw in the first round, piled up an impressive lead in the early sessions, and then coasted to victory. The decision was unanimous, and the fans who paid $50,434 to see the scrap were satisfied.

After the fight Baksi announced he was married just a week ago to Miss Anne Tomchik of East Nassau, N. Y., a farm girl he met last summer. They were wed in Portchester, N. Y.

Baksi's bride was not at the ringside for last night's brawl, and she didn't hear it on the radio or read about it in the papers. She attended a movie, and then listened later while Joe explained what happened.

Baksi outweighed Mauriello, 210½ to 196¼ pounds, and had things his own way most of the time.

Asked if he'd like to meet Joe Louis, Baksi said:

"I feel that Mauriello was a stepping stone, and I'll get in there with Louis anytime my manager says I'm ready."

And Mrs. Baksi?

She just looked at her huge husband, her eyes shining, and said:

"I think my Joe can beat that Joe Louis."

Ray Mueller Leaves For Red Camp Mar. 8

Field May Push Gil Dodds To New Record Tonight

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—Gil Dodds needs to clip only seven-tenths of a second off his 4:08 effort of a week ago to set a new indoor mile record tonight in the feature event of the national AAU track and field championships at Madison Square Garden.

Bill Hulse, Don Burnham and the Hume twins from Michigan, Ross and Robert, will be on hand to see that he doesn't get lonely in the last quarter and slack off from his blazing early pace. Hulse, who was unable to compete because of a "strep" throat last week, was reported in good condition yesterday.

The present indoor mile standard of 4:07.4 is held jointly by Glenn Cunningham, Chuck Fenske and Leslie MacMitchell.

Although the fans glean their biggest thrill from the mile, keen competition is promised in each of the 16 classes.

Cornelius Warmerdam makes his only eastern competitive appearance in the pole vault, a task for which he has been prepping with 13-foot 10-inch efforts in his spare time at Monmouth, Ill., where he is a Navy pre-flight student.

Johny Fulton of Stanford and Joe Nowicki of Rochester resume their middle distance feuding in the 1000-yard event with AAU officials warning against any repetition of last week's jostling exhibition. The 600-yard race field is top heavy with talent and a new indoor mark is predicted when Bill Vessie, Sergt. Joshua Williamson and Corp. Pete Watkins unlimber in the running high jump.

Army, Columbia, New York A. C. and Rochester rank as leading contenders for the mile relay crown with Michigan, NYU, Columbia, Rochester, Dartmouth and New York A. C. rated high in the two-mile relay competition.

More than 1000 athletes from six states and the District of Columbia entered the National AAU interscholastic and prep championships with neither defending titleholder, New Utrecht or Seton Hall (N. J.) prep expected to repeat. Bishop Loughlin is favored to regain the schoolboy crown and LaSalle Military Academy is liked in the prep class.

CATHOLIC HIGH ICE LEAGUE TILTS TONIGHT

Schoolboy hockey activity, slowed to a snail's pace with the termination of three suburban league schedules and the usual abruptness of the Boston campaign, will be centered at the Boston Skating Club tonight where the Catholic League will swing into its seventh session with its usual trio of tilts.

The Headmasters' round robin series, slated for next week-end, will write finis to the ice game for all with the exception of this newest of circuits.

As has been the case in past weeks, St. Patrick's High of Stoneham will be stealing the spotlight while attempting to maintain its undefeated record of seven straight, this time in a repeat performance against St. Clement's of Somerville. Other contests will pit Mission of Roxbury against St. Sebastian's of Newton and Malden Catholic against St. Mary's of Waltham.

St. Patrick's, with five boys worthy of All-League play in the recent clash with the GBI All-Stars second team, will be a strong favorite to continue its winning way against the Somerville outfit which has failed to break into the winning column this season.

John "Buck" Jordan, All-Stars center, will be setting the pace for the league leaders with Bill Burke, another All selection, and Bill Mosley on the wings. Other All choices who'll be helping St. Pat's to maintain its top place will be Edmund Kelley and James Lilley on defense and Ed Fitzpatrick, high scoring second liner, on a wing.

Ice Fan Inserts Ad for Ducats

DETROIT, Feb. 26 (AP)—The National Hockey League game between Montreal and Detroit here tomorrow night has been sold out for a week, but today a desperate fan still held out hope of getting into Olympia Stadium.

In the want ad columns of the Detroit Free Press appeared this entry: Wanted—four tickets to Sunday's hockey game.

GBI ICE STARS TOP BAY STATE IN ARENA TILT

The unsung heroes, Jimmy Malone of Arlington and the entire Melrose line clicked together perfectly to take the thunder away from the headliners and lead the Greater Boston All Stars to a 4-2 victory over the Bay State All Stars before 2500 at the Arena. It was a whale of a battle from start to finish with neither team enjoying an edge at any time.

The G. B. I. took the lead early in the game when the Bay Staters were short-handed and the Melrose line, supposed to be excess baggage, tore in and Lloyd flipped home a six-footer. Later in the period Walter MacDonald took a pass-up from Bob Driscoll and let go a floater that tied it up for Bay State.

In a wild second period the underdog Bay Staters played rings around the favorites and at the 13-minute mark Bob Driscoll slammed home a shot from the blue line to send the junior league out front. Then in the last frame when it looked as though the Bay Staters were in, Jimmy Malone got his first on a pass from Jack Garrity to tie it up and Bob Lloyd got his second to clinch it for the G. B. I's. Malone then went the length of the ice for his second just before the bell sounded.

Bob Bell's goal in the second minute of overtime, his second of the night, gave the Bay State second team a well deserved 4-3 victory over the G. B. I. seconds.

Big Green Aces In Hub Hoop Tilt

Making their only appearance as a unit, the Hanover Marines, composed of Dartmouth basketball stars, will tangle with the strong 303d Quartermasters at Mechanics Building tomorrow afternoon in the finest hoop attraction of the year.

Larry Killick, Larry Baxter and Joe Fater, all regulars on the Big Green c[lub] which swept to the Eastern championship, will be in the Marines lineup tomorrow as will Harold Hayes, Floyd Wilson, Walt Peterson and Gerry Slattery, a quartet of veterans who saw plenty of action all this past season.

Gordie Botsford, former Boston University ace who hails from Winthrop, will complete the squad Botsford did not go out for the Dartmouth squad this year because of studies but he played informally and is in top shape.

This standout group of collegians head for Parris Island next week.

Then for added color 100 Marines have been invited to root for the Hanover boys while the Quartermasters will have their own band on hand. A preliminary game between St. Francis of Assisi of Medford and the Lexington All Stars will round out the card. The schedule clash between St. Mary's of Quincy and the Brooklyn Eagles was cancelled when the Eagles were unable to make the trip.

Servicemen to Clash In Lynn Boxing Card

The Pioneer A. A. of Lynn, one of the foremost amateur fight clubs in New England will stage a boxing show Friday night at the Lynn Arena. It will be an open affair with all eight classes being contested.

Most of the simon pure belters will be servicemen. Beezer Downing, promoter of the show, has teams coming from Quonset, Hingham and Squantum naval bases. Among the entries are Bobby Zollo, present N. E. welterweight champion and Chief Little Haynes. Four boys from the British navy representing Hingham Naval Base, will also compete.

Pics in Pair Of Games Here

Weakened somewhat by the loss of Tommy Brennan and Clarence Schmidt who have joined the Bruins, the Olympics will face the Brooklyn Crescents tonight and tomorrow night at the Arena in quest of their seventh and eighth consecutive victories and to stretch their league victory mark to 32 to 34 starts.

In meeting the Crescents the Pics will face the league's top scorer, "five-by-five" Hank D'Amore, the Gowanus club's playing manager, who boasts a slight lead in that department over Boston's Tom Brennan. Due to Brennan's promotion the local boy will be deprived of any chance of catching the visitor and if his elevation to the parent club assumes any permanence, D'Amore more than likely will run away with the race.

The loss of Brennan and Schmidt will be compensated somewhat by the return of Joe Schmidt, out of action for over a month due to a knee injury, and the younger brother of the former Bruin will team up on the second line with Gordie Staseson and Bryan Robinson.

The first line will be composed of Vernon Jones at center flanked by Gerry Desrosiers and George Kelly while Fernie Flamon, Jerry Junkins and Bob Jeremiah will constitute the third wave.

Besides D'Amore the Crescents are well set in the scoring line as the club has Don Raleigh, formerly of the Rangers, and Orville Smith who played two games for Boston earlier in the year and who was formerly high scorer for the Pittsburgh Hornets.

OLYMPICS—Kelly, lw; Jones, c; Desrosiers, rw; Andersen, ld; Labrie, rd; Courteau, g.

CRESCENTS—Ashworth, rw; D'Amore, c; Smith, lw; Mohna, rd; Shero, ld; Murray, g.

Cub Alumni Enter Bowling Tourney

CHICAGO, Feb. 26 (AP)—The Chicago Cub alumni bowling team, consisting of four former National League baseball stars, will make its first bid for big time bowling honors tonight.

The team of one time diamond greats is one of 60 entered in the third annual $3000 Bolium five-man classic. The former Cubs are Gabby Hartnett, Bob O'Farrell, and Jimmy Archer, catchers; pitcher Tony Kaufman, and Pat Pieper, announcer at Wrigley Field, the Cubs' park.

Soldiers Change Whizzer's Name

A SOUTH PACIFIC NAVAL BASE, Feb. 26 (AP)—When Whizzer White, former All-America football star, arrived as a commissioned officer, his shipmates didn't know what to call him.

Byron, his real name, is too dignified, they said, and "Whizzer is too collegiate for wartime use."

Then one night a movie was shown with Jack Oakie playing the part of a football star named Bolinkowitz. Since they call White "Boley."

Mack's Pitcher War Casualty

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 26 (AP)—Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, said today he has been notified that Pete Suder, veteran infielder for the Athletics, has been called up for his pre-induction examination.

Suder, who lives in Aliquippa, Pa., is married and the father of two, told the A's manager, "I don't think I'll be playing any ball this year."

At the same time Mack also heard from Lieut. Bob Savage, former A's pitcher. Savage was wounded in the Italian campaign and is now in a hospital where doctors are trying to remove a piece of shrapnel from his shoulder.

The former pitcher revealed that physicians so far had been unable to remove the shrapnel and added, "I hope they will be able to dig ie out because, more than anything else, I want to pitch for you again."

Gracie Suspended

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 26 (AP)—Coach Larry Aurie of the Pittsburgh Hornets of the American Hockey League announced the suspension of Bob Gracie, veteran wing and center, for the remainder of the current season for "indifferent playing."

Casey Silent

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26 (INS)—Casey Stengel wasn't talking today.

Returning from the East where he had resigned as manager of the Boston Braves and disposed of substantial holdings in the ball club, Stengel answered all queries with:

"No comment!"

Admitting he had several chances to remain in baseball, Stengel otherwise was about as talkative as the sphinx.

Fireworks Mark Bouts

Fight fans numbering 3148 who paid $3622.50 were treated to one of the best shows of the winter at the Goodwin A. C. program in Mechanics building.

The feature bout, a scheduled 10-rounder, saw Larry Anzalone of Brooklyn, a middleweight new to these parts, chill our Billy Tordiglione of the North End early in the fifth heat.

Tordiglione almost did the chilling after the bell sounded in the first round. He clipped the Flatbush battler on the button. Mr. Brooklyn came back with a right and Tordiglione grabbed his ring chair.

Billy had the edge in the second round and was well in front early in the third. But Anzalone got started before this round was over and swarmed all over the North End boy in the fourth, hitting him with everything but the ring posts and finally knocking him down.

The bell rang before Referee Tommy Rawson could count ten, but when the gong sounded for the fifth, Tordiglione couldn't respond.

Right off the bat, Frankie Leonard of Taunton gets knocked down seven times by an incredible Negro battler named Willie Roach from Wilmington, Del., but what does the blond Francis do but climb off the canvas seven times and earn a draw.

Then Brockton's Pat Demers, roared in to floor Tommy Murray of New York four times before flattening the invader early in the second round.

The opening bout found Steve Kronis of the South End knocking out Angelo Manna of Worcester early in the third round.

Irish Make Plans For Mills Services

NOTRE DAME, Ind., Feb. 26 (INS)—Notre Dame officials and students laid plans today to pay their final respects to Thomas E. (Tommy) Mills, 60, prominent athletic department figure, who died yesterday.

Mills died of a heart attack in a shower room of the Rockne Memorial fieldhouse, of which he had been director for the past four years.

Blue Devils Win

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 27 (AP)—Duke's Blue Devils withstood a brilliant N. S. State rally in the final minutes of their semi-finals game here and licked the Terrors 40 to 32 for the right to meet North Carolina in the championship game of the Southern Conference tournament tonight.

BC-HC RENEW HOCKEY FEUD AFTER 15 YRS.

Boston College and Holy Cross will renew hockey relationship at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the Arena after a lapse of 15 years. The last time the two teams met was in 1929 when B. C was the victor, 6-1. In recent years Boston College has been a leading contender for New England honors while the Crusaders have been handicaped in forming a team by a la[ck] of facilities. Now, both teams are informal and appear at this time to be evenly matched.

Jake Driscoll will be the mainstay for the Eagles, operating as center in the first line. He will be flanked by Flynn and Doane as wings. A newcomer to the squad, Bill Dolan of English, will start as defenseman and partner to Ned McLaughlin. In the nets for Boston College will be Charlie Davis.

The Holy Cross starting line will be John Dolan, Bob Ferris, and Jack Guthrie while Don Kerrivan and Jerry Gleason will be the defensemen. Tending goal for the Cross will be Ed Chandler of Norwood, who is well known locally for his playing on the Norwood High team in the Bay State League.

Hits Jack Pot—Joe Baksi, a lad from the Penn. coal mines bashed his way into the heavyweight limelight last night at the Madison Sq. Garden when he won the duke from Tami Mauriello, who was a 3 to 1 choice over the intruder. Mauriello was rated the second ranking heavyweight to Joe Louis but after this set back has lost both ranking and prestige.

Chaplin Gives 2 Not Guilty Pleas

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 26 (INS)—Charlie Chaplin today lost the first round in his fight to escape trial on federal Mann Act violation and conspiracy indictments involving his former protege, redheaded Joan Berry.

Federal Judge J. F. T. O'Connor refused to sustain two demurrers to the "white slave" charge entered by Jerry Giesler, chief counsel for Chaplin, 54-year-old movie comedian.

Chaplin immediately pleaded not guilty to the two counts in this indictment.

His trial was set for Tuesday, March 21.

As soon as Judge O'Connor had denied defense motions, Chaplin was called before the bar for his third court appearance this week.

"Mr. Chaplin, are you ready to plead?" the clerk asked.

"I am," Chaplin said in a firm, loud voice.

"How do you plead on the first count?"

"I am not guilty."

"And on the second count?"

"I am not guilty."

Chaplin stood for a moment as Giesler and Judge O'Connor began discussing a trial date. Then Judge Connor turned to him and said:

"You may sit down, Mr. Chaplin."

Chaplin inclined his head and returned to the counsel table.

On March 9 he is scheduled to plead on three other indictments charging he and six co-defendants conspired to violate Miss Berry's civil rights by "deporting" her from California because she assertedly had annoyed the white-haired comic.

The first defense attack on the "white slave" indictment rejected by Judge O'Connor contended the Mann Act was intended only for the prosecution of commercialized vice. The government has charged Chaplin took Miss Berry, who is 24, to New York city, and later returned her to Los Angeles 18 months ago for immoral purposes.

The second point raised by the defense was that the indictments were invalid because women assertedly had been barred from serving on the federal grand jury.

Chaplin sat and crossed and recrossed his legs while Judge O'Connor for half an hour considered technical points raised by Giesler.

Chaplin wore a brown suit with a white shirt and brown tie.

His attorneys are scheduled to argue Wednesday a motion for dismissal of Miss Berry's suit charging him with being the father of her daughter, now 5 months old.

Churchill's Son Drops In on Tito

LONDON, Feb. 26 (AP)—Capt. Randolph Churchill, son of the prime minister, is conferring with Marshal Tito, Yugoslav guerrilla leader, after presumably parachuting into Yugoslavia, it was learned today.

Capt. Churchill, 32, was the first member of Parliament to become a paratrooper. He went to the Middle East with a commando unit in 1941 and later was seriously injured in an automobile crash. He returned to action in north Africa in 1942.

The purpose of his mission to Tito was not announced but presumably it is a part of the British effort to give all possible aid to the Yugoslav partisans.

Admits Kicking Mate to Death

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 26 (AP)—A shipyard worker's death plunge from a third-floor window of his apartment, recorded as an accident five months ago, has been changed to murder in police books. The victim's wife has confessed she kicked him through a window as he was packing up to leave her during a drinking bout.

Mrs. Alice Carney, 36, was booked on a murder charge.

Her husband, Harry, 36, died in an ambulance on the way to a hospital Sept. 12 without regaining consciousness, and his wife told police at the time he had accidentally fallen out of the window. Now she confesses she went "blind, crazy mad" when her husband said he was leaving her and, rolling back on a bed, she kicked him with both feet through the open window.

Mrs. Carney, who has a son in the Army, said she was born in Bangor, Me., and divorced her first husband a few months after birth of the son.

Fight for Guam Raging Say Nazis

NEW YORK, Feb. 26 (AP)—A Berlin broadcast of a Tokyo dispatch today said a violent battle of several days was in progress "for possession of the Pacific isle of Guam," with the Japanese garrison fighting to stave off attacks by an American naval formation.

"A communique anent this fighting is expected from Japanese headquarters this Saturday," said the broadcast.

"This former United States property is situated nearest to the Japanese isles," it added.

Earlier the British radio picked up a Japanese broadcast which said American naval forces were attacking the island.

The BBC, as heard by NBC, noted Allied accounts had told of an aerial strike at Guam, but "nothing is known about this latest Japanese claim."
